

25 November 2008

Dear _____

RE VACANT MANAGERIAL POSITION

Please find enclosed my CV in application for the vacant manager position at _____ Football Club.

As you will see from the enclosed CV, my track record is second-to-none.

I have reached incomparable heights of achievement with Manchester United and Banbury United FC, so much so that I have had to spurn a number of employment opportunities with Argentina, Brazil and Angola. Rest assured, I am committed to the opportunities, and wages, presented by club football.

I have a number of relevant qualities and skills. I am calm under pressure and am a born winner. I have instilled strict training and fitness regimes at Banbury and Manchester and I know what it takes to succeed. My man management skills are beyond doubt. I know when to go easy on unruly players, and when to hit them hard with a verbal warning.

Of course, I understand the modern game is also about managing the media, and I have considerable experience praising my players when they have attained an average rating in excess of 7.5.

In short, I am everything you are looking for. Although I have won in the region of 96 trophies and spent over £8.4 billion in cumulative transfer fees, I am as hungry and determined as I was when I began this epic football odyssey last June.

I look forward to your speedy and positive response to my world-class application.

Yours sincerely,
